

STARSHIP STATS

Every Sith warrior owns a personal starship for deadly missions. My Sith Infiltrator was built secretly by Raith Sienar and Sienar Design Systems. It is based on a dangerous armed "courier" starship created by Sienar's Advanced Projects laboratory. Even as we speak, Sienar is experimenting with new and more lethal starships.

My Infiltrator is the only one of its kind. As you will learn, it has many hidden weapons and abilities. A high-temperature X-C 2 ion drive array propels the starship at amazing sublight speeds, allowing me to catch even the fastest ships. The Infiltrator also has a Class 3.0 Sienar SSDS 11-A hyperdrive for lightspeed travel. Using the hyperdrive, I can reach any planet in the galaxy quickly to do my Master's bidding.

The Infiltrator has a long nose and very distinctive bent wings that fold when the starship lands. I rarely have "guests" aboard the Infiltrator, but the starship has seating for up to six passengers...or prisoners, as the case may be.

In space battle, the Infiltrator's powerful deflector shields can stop enemy laser blasts. Meanwhile, I can unleash the Infiltrator's six concealed laser cannons. I don't travel with a copilot or gunners, but I do have onboard targeting computers, and I am an expert pilot. And with the dark side as my ally, I cannot be defeated.

I sense your fear. Perhaps you have noticed my "dark eye" probe droid watching you? I keep several on my starship, and they follow every order I give them.

I have other equipment aboard the starship as well. Cargo holds on the Infiltrator contain torture devices, bombs, mines, and poisons to punish the enemies of the Sith. I even have interrogator droids that can obtain the truth from anyone.

When I land on a planet, I use my Sith speeder to travel. The speeder is stored on the Infiltrator and is released through an underside cargo hatch.

Are you afraid of the Darth?

ATTACK MODE

I prefer to enter combat with my double-bladed lightsaber, but there are times when I must attack an enemy in space.

TOP-SECRET DATA

I do not trust you, young one, but my Master has instructed me to tell you everything about the Infiltrator.

Very well. My starship's secret weapon is its cloaking device. The cloaking device makes the Infiltrator completely invisible. It is impossible for sensors to detect the Infiltrator when the cloaking device is activated.

Extremely rare and very expensive stygium crystals power the cloaking device. The crystals burn out quickly and must be replaced often. They can only be found on Aeten II in the Outer Rim — a dangerous and unstable volcanic world.

Now, you know more about the Infiltrator — and the Sith — than any other being in the galaxy. My Master will expect great things from you. I hope you do not disappoint him....
